That Company Said to Have Secured Control of the Lehigh Valley-The Future of the Wabash.

A new "limited" train, which will run be tween Chicago and New York in twentyfive hours, will go into service on the Pennsylvania Railroad on Sunday, May 27. It will be called the "Fort Wayne No. 20." It will run every day in the week, leaving Chicago at 12:30 in the afternoon, and arrive in New York at 2:30 p. m., Eastern time. The corresponding train, westbound, will leave New York daily at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and run to Chicago in twenty-six hours. On this train an excess fare of $2 will be charged, or a total of $22, in accordance with the agreement of the Eastern railroads that additional the litigation which has been pending for fare at the rate of $1 an hour shall be charged on every train running between New York and Chicago in less than twentyeight hours. For this reason the fare on Fort Wayne Train 20, from Chicago to New York, will be $23, as the run is to be made in twenty-five hours. Although the Pennsylvania announces its intention to charge excess fare on its new train, which will the annual interest charge $111,500. Rerun between Chicago and New York in less | ceiver Malott has in his hands sufficient than twenty-eight hours, it is by no means certain that it will continue to do so if the Wabash and Lackawanna roads join in establishing twenty-five-hour service between the two cities, and carry out their original intention of charging only the common differential rate of $17 west-bound and $18 east-bound. In some quarters it is believed the Pennsylvania is only preparing to make things decidedly interesting for the Nickelplate, the Wabash and the Lackawanna railroads-all differential lines-which have been pursuing a policy of late which threatens to result in a general demoralization of rates. The new management of th Lackawanna seems to have incurred the ill will of all its competitors. Passenger officials of Western railroads are also complaining of the rate disturbances in their territory, due to the policy which is being pursued by the passenger department of the Lackawanna. Its recent coalition with the Nickel-plate is exciting comment.

When Will They Take the Wabash? been put out, in a tentative way, the authority for it admitting that it does not disturb the rate situation, and the company has such a heavy bonded debt as to rather stagger the Pennsylvania-Vanderbilt interests, who have said to have looked into the matter. The Wabash has outstanding $28,-000,000 of common and $24,000,000 of preferred stock, and $83,073,000 of bonds divided into first and second mortgages on the main line, two classes of debenture bonds, and several small issues of first mortgage bonds by the subidiary and leased lines. The annual interest charge on all of these Wabash bonds is $2,664,195, which the company is now earning and paying. President nounced that the road was practically free from floating debt, except in equipment notes of long date, which are to be extinguished in monthly payments. The condition and earning power of the Wabash are reported to be better now than ever before

Three of the class G-4 large ten-wheel passenger engines building at Altoona for the Panhandle have been received, and two of them brought in passenger trains from Columbus yesterday. One of these engines on Monday left Pittsburg with fourteen postal cars, fifty minutes late and on the fast time of that train arrived at Columbus on time, making a record never before reached between those points with a heavy train.

Knocked Down Often by McPartland Before Referee Interfered.

NEW YORK, May 22.-Kid McPartland had an easy time with Billy Ernst at the Seaside Sporting Club, Coney Island, tonight. Young Starr, of Philadelphia, who was to have met McPartland, failed to appear, and Ernst, who was billed to go on in the preliminary, was substituted. They were to have gone twenty-five rounds at catch weights, but the referee stopped them in the sixth and awarded McPartland the decision. Ernst had no chance at any time. The Kid's old body punch was much in evidence and in the fourth round Ernst commenced to go to the floor. "Robber!" "Thief!" and such other "endearing" epithets were hurled at Umpire Sheridan at Washington Park yesterday afternoon by the two thousand people present until the disapproval of the crowd was made known far and wide. An ordinary man, one with a conscience, would have felt the disgrace and criticism brought upon him, but that man never turned a shade paler, and, while the spectators were heaping their scathing remarks upon him, he turned toward the grand stand with a sardonic smile creeping over his countenance and stared at the people as much as to say: "Well, if yuse guys don't like it, why don't yuse leave, for I am it and don't intend to see dese Indians win to-day."

If he didn't think just that way, his actions certainly indicated it, for he gave the Indians the 'short end" of nine out of en decisions. It may sound like baby talk, or whatever it is called, to lay the blame of defeat to the umpire, but his "lamps were smoky" and he failed to see one fair hit which would have won the game for Indianapolis, and he also called Hickey out in the ninth inning at first when the runner had clearly beaten the ball to the bag. Sheridan offered no excuse for his poor and partial umpiring other than sarcastic smiles at the excited people who asked for justice and fair play for the Hoosiers.

THE WORST OF ALL. Sheridan's greatest mistake, or piece of robbery, was in the third inning. Hogriever beat out a hit to short and reached second on Conroy's wild throw to first, the ball going to the right bleachers. Hartsel walked to the plate with a hit up his sleeve, and after a couple of balls had been pitched to him proceeded to deliver the goods. The ball sailed down the third base line like an of this country, because I believe it helps | ice boat in a high wind. The sphere made rather than harms the prosperity of our a big dent in the southeast corner of the third base bag, and struck at least one foot inside of fair ground after passing the base observed: "I trust you will take back a It then rolled furiously down the line and into foul ground. Hogriever crossed the plate and Hartsel had reached third before Sheridan made his unjust decision known. When he announced that it was a foul ball the decision was so palpably unfair that Madison's face turned even a brighter shade of crimson than when he is on the coaching line-he fairly blushed with shame for the man who placed himself before a crowd as a baseball umpire. But Sheridan's word was law, and Hartsel again went to bat with his eyes fairly dancing with anger, When he flew out to center his second effort was applauded, even though it availed nothing. Hogriever went to third on the out and Magoon, also boiling over with indignation, fanned the air. Seybold tried to score Hogriever and drove one to Yeager, which was directly in the first baseman's

A CLEVER EXHIBITION. As to the game it was a clever exhibition, and would have been much more interesting with a fair umpire officiating. Then the Indians would have come out carrying the large end of the score, which resulted 2 to 1 in favor of Milwaukee. Kellum was in the box for Indianapolis, and Dowling did the twirling for the Brewers. They both received good support, while the work of the Hoosiers in the field was remarkably fast. Both pitchers had the batters who faced them in the guessing business. While the Indians led in the stick work, in several instances they had men on the bases and could not get them across the rubber because of the lack of a hit at an opportune time. On the other hand the Brewers had the best of the umpiring and a strong vein of luck connected sible relations between them. In doing with their stick work. The Indians started this we have both acted in accordance off like winners, but hopes were blasted by clever throws by Smith when two men Indianapolis and drew a pass to first. A passed ball allowed him to advance to second. Hartsel failed to connect with Dowling's curves, and three strikes were called on him. When Magoon was given four balls Hogriever tried to steal third and was called out. Seybold then hit safely to center, sending Magoon to third. Seybold started to steal second, and was touched out before Magoon could score. In the second inning a piece of lucky hitting allowed the visitors to chalk up one tally. Anderson made a scratch hit and stole second. Fultz and Yeager went out, and Burke sent one to deep right. Hogriever was rapidly getting under the sphere, when his course took him through a wet place in the field. As he reached for the ball as it descended rapidly his feet slipped and he fell to the ground, the ball making a similar but more graceful descent to terre firma. Before the horsehide could be fielded in Anderson had crossed the plate and Burke reached third. TWO OPPORTUNITIES. Two opportunities for scoring were of fered the Indians in the second and third innings, but Sheridan's robbery and Dowl-Greece, with their family, have arrived in ing's good pitching prevented a man from crossing the rubber. Conroy scored on the hit, placing the Brewers one in the lead. When the Indians came to bat Powers went out and Hickey hit to second, beating the ball to the base, but Sheridan called him out, Flynn was then sent to bat for Kellum, and he dropped one to Dowling, being touched out on the line.

Baseball Notes.

This is ladies' day. It wouldn't be fair to win all the time. Gardner will be used in the box this Madison and Kelly led the stick work for the Hoosiers. Anderson will probably be moved to first base for Milwaukee. The two Chicago clubs have the same per cent. in their respective leagues, .556. The Cleveland Baseball Club has purchased Joe Sullivan from the Detroit Club, paying $500 for him. Minneapolis will be the attraction for the next four days. Following the Millers Detroit will be here next week.

Magoon made a pretty stop of Garry's drive yesterday. He caught the ball in his right hand and threw it to first while But for the rank umpiring yesterday's game would have been a very interesting contest. Sheridan's work marred the interest to a certain extent. Kellum pitched a nice game yesterday The hit that scored the winning run in the ninth inning was a lucky pop-up fly into right field, which fell behind Kelly. Indianapolis outbatted and outfielded the Brewers yesterday, but the Indians did not have the umpire with them. It makes a world of difference how the umpire decides close decisions.

Indianapolis and Philadelphia, leaders of the American and National Leagues, have won and lost the same number of games Milwaukee and Brooklyn, the second teams of the two leagues, have the same percent-

He then pointed out the overwhelming majority recently cast for the government of France, except in Paris, at the municipal elections, and said the present was an opportune moment for the chamber to indorse this support of the ministry, who should inform the chamber what they intended to do in response
